Fine Art Statement

THE MOVEMENT OF COLOR

Do you have a favorite color?

Have you ever imagined becoming that color or mentally diving into it?

How does it feel?

Color is such a basic and constant element in our world that we sometimes forget its depth, as if we lived in Black and White. Stop for a moment and look around you. Look at the myriad of colors that surround you. Rarely does one stop to examine one particular color or colors in all their infinite qualities, and experience color as an entity. If you gave your imagination complete freedom to explore color, you could lose yourself in all its possibilities. With this idea as his driving force, ioco intends to show the importance of color through the art of painting and imagination.

Filippo ioco

Fine Artist in the language the Soul Speaks.

It isn't always clear what purpose challenges in life play. So, it must have seemed for a young Italian schoolboy challenged by his inability to use language to communicate with his North American surroundings. Decades later that boy is Filippo ioco, one of the most talented artists communicating to people around the world with the language of color. For all the people who have been spoken to by his art, that challenge was the catalyst of creation that has been returned in worth a hundredfold. His paintings are now requested internationally and speak to thousands.

Clients

ioco's client list and credits include a vast list of top retailers, hospitality, and designers. His works have achieved bestseller status and have been featured in such publications as Metropolitan Home and House Beautiful as well as TV & Film. Like the distinctive look and feel of his Fine Art, iocoPublished also holds a special look and feel all it's own. Filippo pays special attention to detail and color balance for traditional home use. His floral work holds a delicate balance between whimsical, innocence, and sophistication, while his more abstract pieces display a perfect balance of color and harmony.

Charity

Dedicating a large amount of his artistic energy to charity work worldwide for such causes as breast cancer, children with HIV/Aids, children with deformities, abused women and children, wounded troops, and their families. Filippo ioco is renowned for bringing a philanthropic purpose to every project in which he is engaged in.
